

~ The Basic Art of Italian Cooking ~ with Maria Liberati Monday ~ October 5, 2009 ~ 6:30 to 8:30pm at the Horsham Township Library presented by The Friends of Horsham Library

Did you know that October is Italian Culture Month? Please join us as we celebrate with celebrity chef & author, Maria Liberati for an evening filled with a tasting of Italian cuisine. As a former international supermodel, Maria never dreamed that she would go from being a fashion diva to a domestic diva. Ironically, while jet setting off to modeling assignments around the world, Maria became closer to the simplicity of life and food in the country setting of her family's vineyard in the mountains of central Italy. Finding that her grandparents owned a well know bakery in their region and that her great aunt cooked for some members of the royal family sparked (what she now calls) her dormant interest in foods and cooking. She began studying with chefs in area trattorias and country farms and ultimately completed culinary training while in Italy. She soon found herself putting together cooking programs for English, German and Japanese tourists at various vineyards in Italy. Her degree in Foreign Language Education with a minor in nutrition was finally being put to its' full use.

Enjoy your night out with Maria and some "Friends" as we sample an authentic 3 course Italian cooking demonstration that will include:

- Torta Salata (zucchini cake appetizer)
- Gatto (side of layered potatoes and prosciutto)
- Risotto Parmigiana (first course)
- Green salad, coffee and dessert also included.
